SHARKEY VS. JEFFRIES

The Sailor Has Put Up Good Fight Against the Champion in Former Battles.

Now that Jeffries and Sharkey have signed articles for a fight, many comments of the probable outcome are being made by sporting writers all over the country. Few can be found who think for a moment that the sailor Will win, but nevertheless Sharkey must be given credit for having made the a better stand before Jeffries than any of the men who have met the champion ance he came into that title.

These men have met twice before. The first time the go was for twenty rounds, fought in Mechanics' pavilion, San Francisco. May 6, 1898, and Jim Jeffries was decided the winner. Several times in this fight did the call of eral times in this fight did the call of time save the sailor, particularly in the fifteenth and eighteenth rounds. In the eleventh Jeffries put the sailor down with a clean right to the eardown once in forty-five rounds of fighting in the two goes. The second fight, which George Siler refereed, took piace at Coney island, Nov. 3, 1899. It will be remembered that this was fought under the light of the picture machine—very nearly furnace heat. In machine—very nearly furnace heat. In this contest Jeffries was declared the winner on points. Sharkey was said had two ribs broken. It is generally agreed that he put up a beter fight in the second go than in the first.

In the 'Frisco fight Jeffries ruled a 10 to 8 favorite at the ringside. He was a strong favorite at Coney island, and should remain a ruling favorite in the third fight, despite the three-times-and-out call and "the pitcher may go to the well too often" talk.

In the second fight Jeffries apparent-

In the second fight Jeffries apparently broke away from Billy Delaney and followed closely the suggestions of Tommy Ryan, which led directly to the present quart lover some $1,000 Ryan charges is due him for an unpaid portion of a training fee. At that time, prior to the fight Delaney complained prior to the fight, Delaney complained that Jeffries was overfrained. This was said to be due to bitter jealousy

Jeffries and Delaney got together on the champion's last fight and Delaney trained him faithfully for the Ruhlin go, and in justice to the veteran it must be said that Jeff never appeared to better advantage, notwithstanding reports of poor physical condition, bad skin and so on.

There is no doubt but what Jeffries will be again handled by Delaney and will appear in perfect shape. Sharkey, on the other hand, after suffering two defeats, which must hurt him as nothing else could, fell off his training, took to saloon work and driving his trotter up and down the drive for exercise. Reports had him big and fat, a condition he had to get out of to meet Peter Maher six rounds in

It can be assured that if Sharkey faces Jeffries in any way weakened after his other terrific goes, the champion will leave no stunt undone to put him away, as he did Fitzsimmons, early in the fighting. And the chances are that the betting may take this angle. The articles of agreement for

Sharkey-Jeffries fight read as follows:
"1. This agreement, made and entered into this 30th day of December, 1901, between James J. Jeffries of San Francisco, Cal., and Thomas Sharkey Dundalk, Ireland, whereby they agree to meet in a boxing contest of twenty (20) rounds, according to 'Marquis of Queensberry' rules, to a decision, with gloves five (5) ounces each in weight.

"2. The contest to take place before the club offering the best purse for in-

The contest to take place not earlier than March 17, 1902, and not later than April 50, 1902.

". It is agreed by the said James J Jeffries and the said Thomas Charkey that Harry Corbett of San Francisco. Cal., shall act as referee, and that the said Harry Corbett shall be secured by the club procuring the contest.

"9. It is further agreed that both the contestants shall furnish their own bexing gloves, said gloves to be subject to the approval of the referee.

"10. Both the said James J. Jeffries and the said Thomas Sharkey shall each post the sum of $2,500 with Harry Corbett of San Fraucisco, Cal., as a guaranty to fulfill this agreement.

"11. Both contestants shall be selected. "11. Both contestants shall be allowed he privilege of engaging in one sixround contest prior to the lout the event of an adverse decision being rendered against either of the parties to this agreement in said six-round event these articles shall be null and

Jeffries doubts whether or not Harry Corbett will referee the fight. Jim Corbett is not to be considered as a possible match for Jeff. Friends of Jeffries, who are with him here now, say:

Jeff can never be as clever as Jim

Corbett, because that's not strictly in his style, but he is as light on his feet and inconceivably fast. He looks like a lightweight working when in motion—fast, clean and footwork improved 100 per cent when it is needed to carry him in or out.

"Jeffries has certainly improved since "Jeffries has certainly improved since he met Fitzsimmons before, and I doubt very much if Fitzsimmons has not sone back much farther than he anticipates, despite that reported showing with Sharkey down east.

"Jack Jeffries' name will not always be overshadowed by the big brother's, either. He is coming rights leave.

either. He is coming right along, and is much improved over what he was when he worked with Tommy Ryan." TERRY M'GOVERN FIRST.

So Says Young Corbett to Theatrical Manager.

Denver, Jan. 5.-Young Corbett, the featherweight champion, who opened a week's engagement at the Tabor Grand opera house today in P. J. Kennedy's theatrical company, has received a challenge from Eddie Cooke, at one time manager of Jim Jeffries, for a match manager of Jim Jeffries, for a match with George Weltse, the Australian baptam. "Young Corbett is only too eager to meet all comers," said Mr. Kennedy today. "but Terry McGovern will get the first chance. For the next fifteen weeks the champion is under my personal direction, and he will give exhibitions in St. Louis, Louisville. Chicago, Cleveland, Jetroit, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Toledo, Indianapolis, Buffalo, New York, Boston, Philladelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

Jim Hall Dangerously Ill. Cincinnati, O., Jan. 5.—Jim Hall, the well known Australian pugilist, was taken to the city hospital to lay, suffering from lung trouble. While conversing with a group of friends he was seized with a violent hemorrhage. A carriage was immediately called and the once famous pugilist was taken to the city hospital. The physicians said there was no immediate danger, but Hall only smiled and said: "I know better. I know when the referee is counting ten." Hall has made his home in this city for the past few weeks.

The actual details of the session are guarded secrets, but the situation was such that the trustees spent many thoughtful hours yesterday here. be sent in by the mayor for immediate confirmation by the council, which may, however, adjourn over without acting on the name at once. However, Browning's friends claim they have enough councilmen pledged to insure his confirmation. That the police force will be generally reorganized is also one of the strong probabilities, and the Democrats on the force are looking about for other employment. The only Democrat with any prospect of hold-ing his job is Orson Riser, chief of the fire department. A petition signed by almost every business man in the city has been presented to each councilman and the mayor, asking for Riser's re-tention, and it is rather hard to ignore this petition by appointing an inexperienced Republican.

The talk is that an effort will be made to abolish the office of city physician and insist on the county physician's attending to all cases now treat-ed gratis by the city. For sanitary inspector Albert Pow-
